Washington, Dec. 19.—Scandals in which, criminal prosecutions initiated by the United States government to recover lands worth hundreds of millions of dollars are now certain to result from investigations concerning the relations of the Harriman Salt Lake hegemony.

It was the purpose of this testimony to show that the Union Pacific railroad and the Rio Grande Western acquired thousands of acres of valuable coal lands from the government by irregular means. Already the government has sued to recover part of this to the finding of de facto indictment by a grand jury at Salt Lake. The indictments charge against the General Land Office and two United States Senators, and influenced President Roosevelt to recommend that the government coal lands be permanently withdrawn from settlement.

Why Taft Defends Discharge of Negro Troops

Only Means of Ridding Army of a Band of Would Be Murderers, Says Secretary of War.

Conduct of Battalion, Some of Whom Attacked Citizens of Brownsville, Tex., Severely Condemned—Troops Clearly to Blame For Their Pught—Charges "Conspiracy of Silence" and Declares All Members of Accused Battalion Must Have Known Something of Night Assault.

IN his annual report Secretary Taft devotes considerable space to a defense and an explanation of the course of the war department in connection with the discharge without honor of the battalion of the Twenty-fifth infantry (colored), which was stationed at Brownsville, Tex., last summer. The secretary details the events of the night of Aug. 13, involving the "shooting up" of the town of Brownsville by anywhere from nine to twenty members of this battalion. He states that last June objections were made to the stationing of this battalion at Fort Brown by a resident of Brownsville in a letter transmitted to the war department through Senator C. A. Culberson of Texas. After explaining in a letter to the senator why the negro troops were sent to Brownsville despite the protests of citizens of that place the secretary proceeds:

"The battalion was accordingly sent to Fort Brown in command of Major C. W. Penrose and arrived there July 28, 1906. Soon after its arrival unfortunate differences arose between the enlisted men and some townspeople. As is usual in such cases, there was contradictory evidence as to the cause for the troubles, though they were doubtless due primarily to the resentment of certain of the townspeople at the proximity of the enlisted men was also aroused by a discrimination insisted on in most of the saloons of the town, in which separate bars were provided for them. No serious injury was done to any of the colored soldiers, although one of them was knocked down by a government official named Tate with a clubbed revolver for jostling his wife, as he charged, and another was pushed off a gangplank by a customs inspector into the mud of the Rio Grande because drunk and disorderly, as it was claimed.

"On the 12th of August it was reported in Brownsville that a white woman was seized by the hair by a colored soldier and dragged on the ground. This report among the townspeople caused great bitterness and excitement of feeling, which gave such concern to the officers of the battalion that on the night of the same day they sent patrols into the town to bring back their soldiers to the fort. A few minutes after 12 o'clock midnight of the next day, Aug. 13-1, e., on the morning of Aug. 14—shots were fired in the fort toward the town from the neighborhood of each barracks of the three companies. The fort is really in the town and only separated from the houses by a wall. The first shots seem to have been fired in the air. Immediately afterward a number of men, variously estimated from nine to twenty, climbed over the wall between the fort and the town. There was much direct evidence that these men were colored soldiers in khaki and blue shirts, carrying the new service rifle. From seventy-five to a hundred cartridge shells and used clips and some undischarged cartridges were found upon the streets of the town the next morning, and Major Penrose, commanding the battalion, then identified them as ammunition for the new service rifle and reluctantly admitted their conclusive weight as evidence that the shooting was done by some of his men.

"Shooting Up" the Town.

"The raiders advanced up an alley leading from the fort through the town and first fired into the room of a house on the alley at the end of the first block, in which were two women and five children. One of the bullets knocked over and put out a lighted lamp on the table in the room. Ten shots were fired, nearly all going through the house at about four and a half feet above the floor. The raiders then encountered the chief of police on a horse. He had heard the shooting and hurried toward the sound. When he saw the soldiers, the number of whom he estimated to be fifteen, he turned and tried to escape. They fired on him, killed his horse and wounded him in the arm so that it had to be amputated. Two policemen who had separated from him were also shot at. A bullet pierced the hat of one of them. The raiders then fired into Miller's hotel, on the alley at the end of the second block. Six bullet holes were found in the hotel the next day.

"The party then divided. One squad proceeded farther down the alley to the third block toward a saloon, where the colored men must drink at a separate bar. The bartender heard them coming and attempted to close the door, but was shot and instantly killed near the door. The fatal wound was declared by a competent surgeon with the darkness—about midnight—and proceeded to discharge their weapons into the houses of the town for the purpose of killing those against whom they felt a grievance. They came very near killing some one or more of the three women and seven children who were sitting or sleeping in two of the lighted rooms into which they fired. They, in fact, did kill one man, wound another and seriously injured the chief of police. They accompanied their firing with expressions indicating the malice which prompted their action. There can be no doubt, therefore, that the squad of men who moved together from the fort to the town and did this shooting were guilty of murder—and murder in the first degree—and that if they were discovered they could be properly subjected to capital punishment. The purpose of one was the purpose of all.

Officers Take Prompt Action.

"The first volley awakened many of the sleeping garrison and attracted the attention of the sentinel, who discharged his gun three times and called the guard. The sergeant of the guard called out the guard, and then he directed the call to arms to the battalion. The bugle sounded, and the men rushed to the gun racks, which the sergeants and corporals in charge say had not been opened until they opened them with the keys which had been in their possession for more than twelve hours. One gun rack was broken open in the hurry of the men to answer the call to arms. The commissioned officers were awakened by the firing, dressed hurriedly and came out to call the roll of the men of the various companies. They supposed that an attack had been made upon the barracks by men in the town and did not know until some hours later that the shooting had been done by soldiers and that their men were suspected of any offense. As soon as they were informed of the facts by the mayor they caused all the rifles of the enlisted men to be examined. Every rifle was then found to be clean.

"The evidence makes it quite clear that the firing had not ceased when the men began to form in line and therefore that all the guns with which the firing was done could not have been in the racks when the sergeants in charge of quarters went to unlock the racks, although they testified that they were there. It is also certain that during the formation of the companies or immediately after the men who had done the shooting must have returned to their places so as to respond to the roll call or that some one answered for them. One or two enlisted men testified that the first shooting was done outside the fort, that it was accompanied by cries indicating hostility to the soldiers and that the bullets were directed toward the barracks, but not the slightest trace of any bullet holes could be found in the barracks, and the great weight of the testimony indicates that these witnesses were mistaken. The facts as stated appear from the careful investigation and report of Major Blockson of the inspector general's corps of the army, supplemented by affidavits and oral examination of many witnesses, conducted by a citizens' committee at the invitation of Major Penrose, and by the report of Major Penrose. Major Blockson began his investigation three days after the occurrence.

Penalty For Conspiracy of Silence.

"Since the occurrence every effort has been made by the commissioned officers and by competent military inspectors sent for the purpose through cross examination of each member of the company who was present in the fort that night to find some clue by which the enlisted men who committed this crime could be detected, and not the slightest evidence tending to establish the identity of a single man has been forthcoming. All the enlisted men of the battalion were advised that if evidence was not forthcoming leading to the identification of those who planned and committed these murders and attempted murders it would become necessary to discharge all the men present at Fort Brown that night without honor and to bar them from re-enlistment in the army or service in the navy or in the civil service.

"Inspector General Garlington then examined every man who came within the operation of the proposed order and was entirely unable to elicit a single circumstance leading to the identification of the murderers. He became convinced that there was a conspiracy of silence in the battalion to protect the criminals, and, while he conceded that there might be a number of men in the battalion innocent both of the crime and of suppression of evidence, he deemed it necessary in the interest and for the good of the service to recommend the issuing of the order which by authority he had told the men would be made and enforced unless evidence pointing to the criminals was forthcoming. This department concurred in General Garlington's recommendation, and the president then directed the discharge of certain named members of the battalion, which included all the enlisted men of the battalion who were present at Fort Brown on the night in question, without honor, and forever debarred them from re-enlistment in the army or navy of the United States as well as from employment in any civil capacity under the government. The order of discharge has been duly executed.

The order has attracted much attention and has been severely criticized as unjust because it condemns many innocent men to undeserved punishment. It is not improper, therefore, in this report to review the case and state the reasons which not only justified it, but made it necessary.

"First—Out of a battalion of 120 enlisted men in the army of the United States from nine to twenty men formed a preconcerted plan to revenge themselves upon the people of a town in which they were stationed for the insult they felt that the townspeople had heaped upon them. In accordance with the plan, they left their barracks under cover of the darkness—about midnight—and proceeded to discharge their weapons into the houses of the town for the purpose of killing those against whom they felt a grievance. They came very near killing some one or more of the three women and seven children who were sitting or sleeping in two of the lighted rooms into which they fired. They, in fact, did kill one man, wound another and seriously injured the chief of police. They accompanied their firing with expressions indicating the malice which prompted their action. There can be no doubt, therefore, that the squad of men who moved together from the fort to the town and did this shooting were guilty of murder—and murder in the first degree—and that if they were discovered they could be properly subjected to capital punishment. The purpose of one was the purpose of all.

"Second—Within ten minutes or more after this crime was committed, when the whole garrison was aroused by the noise of the firing, the guilty men returned to their places and must have been among the last men to take their places, for the reason that the firing continued after the formations had begun. The absence of the rifles from the racks could not have escaped the attention of the sergeants who had the keys of the racks, if indeed they had the keys, and yet all the sergeants swear that the rifles were in the racks, untouched. Before the next morning all the guns were clean. It is impossible that many of the battalion who did not take part as active members of the conspiracy to murder were not made aware by one circumstance or another of the identity of the persons who committed this heinous offense.

"Third—Instead of giving to their officers or to the military inspectors who were directed to make the examination the benefit of anything which they knew tending to lead to a conviction of guilty persons, there was a conspiracy of silence on the part of the many who must have known something of importance in this regard. Thus the murderers were taken back into the battalion and protected entirely from punishment.

Under these circumstances the question arises, Is the government helpless? Must it continue in its service a battalion many of the members of which show their willingness to condone a crime of a capital character committed by from ten to twenty of its members and put on a front of silence and ignorance which enables the criminals to escape just punishment. These enlisted men took the oath of allegiance to the government and were to be used under the law to maintain its supremacy. Can the government properly, therefore, keep in its employ for the purpose of maintaining law and order any longer a body of men from 5 to 10 per cent of whom can plan and commit murder and rely upon the silence of a number of their companions to escape detection?

Whole Battalion Useless.

"It may be that in the battalion are a number of men wholly innocent, who know neither who the guilty men are nor any circumstances which will aid in their detection, though this cannot be true of many. Because there may be innocent men in the battalion must the government continue to use it to guard communities of men, women and children when it contains so dangerous an element impossible of ridding of the military service of a band of would be murderers of women and children and actual murderers of one man is the discharge of the entire battalion.

"It is a mistake to suppose that this order is in itself a punishment either of the innocent or of the guilty. A discharge would be an utterly inadequate punishment for those who are guilty whether of committing the murder or of withholding or suppressing evidence which would disclose the perpetrators of such a crime. The use of the word penalty in the proceedings is a mere misnomer and is unfortunate. The dismissal from the service of the members of this battalion under the circumstances is not a punishment, however great the hardship. There is a dismissal technically known as a dishonorable discharge, which is only imposed by sentence by a court. This is a punishment. But the members of this battalion were not dishonorably discharged. They could not have been so discharged except after a trial. They were discharged for the good of the service, as the technical phrase is, 'without honor.'

Duty of Noncommissioned Officers.

"Much sympathy has been evoked for those who have been so long in the public service as some of the noncommissioned officers and others of this battalion of the Twenty-fifth infantry. It is to be said with respect to these noncommissioned officers that upon them especially falls the duty of maintaining the discipline of the companies and the battalion and that by reason of their long service and from their official authority they have more influence over the men and more opportunity to learn the circumstances leading to a detection of the guilty in this case than any others connected with the regiment. Indeed it was their peculiar duty to find out and disclose the facts, but they have failed to do so.

"The suggestion made in some quarters that this battalion has been treated in this way simply because the men are colored hardly merits notice. The fact of their color and the racial feeling aroused between them and the citizens of Brownsville may have been the cause and furnished the motive, but certainly not a justification for the plot to murder men, women and children, but to this extent only in explanation of the circumstances is the fact of their color at all relevant.

"It is possible that evidence may be adduced in future which will tend to exculpate entirely some of the men now discharged, both from participation in the crime and assistance in the conspiracy of silence to prevent the detection of the offenders, and whenever such facts are shown in respect to any one affected by the order they will be brought to your attention and, I understand, will render such persons eligible to re-enlistment."

EMPIRE COAT IN CARACUL AND LYNX.

Fashion is indebted to the automobile specialists—or, rather, to those who make specialties of furnishing correct automobile garb—for some of the cleverest and most attractive ideas for general wear that the season has furnished. For example, the smart surcoat in caracul, one of the season's most fashionable furs. The necessity for the full length garment is insisted upon by those who have experienced the discomforts of short jackets when on tour, except the rugs be likewise of fur or fur lined.

The empire mode is followed, the body part of the coat being of the plain and full-yoke shape, setting closely over the shoulders but so cleverly cut that the side seams stand well away from the figure rather than hugging it closely. To this the full skirts are applied, those later following a circular cut, and this fullness increased by means of a circular flounce that is attached to the lower edge. This still further increasing the fullness. To conceal the joining seam where skirt and body part are connected there is a loose belt in sheared lynx, while the huge rever collar and the flat-band cuff, that serves to confine the fullness of the large sleeve, are of the full-length lynx fur, a belt that has risen to considerable esteem as a trimming accessory for the short-haired furs this season.

WOMAN

Removed to Hospital Suffering From Chloroform Poisoning.

New York, Dec. 10.—Lulu B. Grover, 45, who describes herself as a magazine writer, was removed to a hospital suffering from chloroform poisoning. Her condition is said to be critical. There is some doubt as to the identity of the woman, who for a month past has occupied an apartment on Lexington avenue. The police believe her to be the "Mrs. Grover" who, just prior to the Roosevelt-Longworth wedding, was asked to leave the White House, and who later attempted to see the president at Oyster Bay. Mrs. Grover lives alone, and was found unconscious on the floor of her bathroom by a neighbor. She said to a physician who had been summoned: "Let me alone, I wish to die. There is no one to blame."

When the police visited the house they found on a table two letters, one sealed and the other opened. The sealed letter read: "To the coroner or the first police officer who finds my body here: I beg of you to telephone to President Theodore Roosevelt. He will have my body cremated. I have written to him, have made my will, and all I have is his. He will have everything attended to just as I wish it to be, right. He knows where to find everything."

NEGROES

Have No Ambition to Mingle Socially With the Whites.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 10.—Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskegee college, Alabama, addressed large gatherings of negroes in this city, at the invitation of the Civic league, an association composed of prominent members of white and colored citizens of Atlanta. After reviewing the results and the conditions brought about by the recent race troubles he said: "An element that has kept the two races from co-operating has been the constant threat of negro domination. I am in constant touch with all classes of my people, north and south, and I do not hesitate to say that the negro has no ambition to mingle socially with the white race, neither has he any ambition to dominate the white man in political matters. What the negro is interested in is that individually he and his family shall receive justice."

Nassau, N. H., Dec. 10.—Captain Frederickson of the Norwegian bark Wellington, his wife and 15 members of the crew of the vessel were rescued at sea Dec. 2 in an exhausted condition by the Elder-Dempster steamer Sokoto. The Wellington, which sailed from Gulfport, Miss., Dec. 12, with a cargo of lumber for Rosario, Argentina, was waterlogged when deserted. The Sokoto will take the rescued persons to Havana.

MULE ESCAPES.

Dynamite Explosion Snuffs Out the Lives of Six Men.

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 10.—One white man, five negroes and an Indian were blown to fragments by the explosion of dynamite in a tunnel on the right of way of the new South & Western railroad. The white man had been ordered to open a box of dynamite for blasting purposes, and started to comply. One blow from a hammer exploded the contents, and only a small fragment of the white man, who was blown through the tunnel, has been found. Six others were dismembered and seven were seriously injured. A mule and car were blown through the portal of the tunnel and down the mountain side. The car was wrecked, and the mule escaped unscathed, and of his own volition galloped off to the stable. Not a single person in the tunnel escaped injury.

EXCESSIVE SPEED

In Passenger Trains Expressly Forbidden by the Management of the Burlington Railroad.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—Excessive speed in passenger trains has been expressly forbidden by the management of the Burlington road in a circular issued to train crews and engineers by Daniel Willard, second vice president. The circular states that excessive speed is not necessary, even in maintaining fast passenger schedules. In order that there may be no excuse for engineers disobeying the instructions, the officials have installed speedometers in the cabs of all passenger engines.

THE BURNER SYSTEM OF SANITARiums IN CALIFORNIA

THIS MAN CAN CURE YOU

PROFESSOR H. RUSSELL BURNER, M. D., whose home was for many years in Ohio—in fact, he was born at Newark, in this State—has established in California a regular chain of Sanitariums where his celebrated radium, milk and rest cure is administered. The use of radium as a curative agent owes its success very largely to the initiative of Dr. Burner. He was the largest private owner of this valuable "mineral," as it is usually termed, and he has placed his supply at the disposal of his various Sanitariums. It has been found that milk which has been made radio-active is enhanced 50 per cent as food value, and its curative possibilities can scarcely be over-estimated. All chronic diseases seem to yield readily to this form of treatment—which is modified, of course, to suit each particular case. Diseases of the throat, chest and lungs, as well as all forms of nervous troubles are promptly and permanently cured by this remarkable discovery.

California in the winter time is an ideal place to live, and of all the beautiful spots in the Golden State, certainly Los Angeles and the surrounding country can lay claim to first place. Each and everyone of the Burner Sanitariums is an ideal home of rest and beauty, as well as a delightful health-giving place. There are trained nurses, resident physicians, and everything that can be thought of to add to the health and peace of the inmate.

Two of these delightful establishments are situated at Long Beach, Cal., and three of them are in, or near the city of Los Angeles, Cal., so that the patient has the choice of any altitude, and any atmosphere that he or she may choose.

The fullest information, together with profusely illustrated literature, can be obtained from the executive office free of all charge. All correspondence is regarded as confidential and is quite promptly attended to by Dr. Burner personally.

BELLAMY STORER MAKES A REPLY

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 10.—Bellamy Storer gave out today the first statement for publication regarding the Archbishop of Ireland affair which resulted in his removal as ambassador to Austria and Hungary. After reading Mr. Roosevelt's statement he said: "I seem to have been elected a member of the Ananias club, like others who have come into dispute with Roosevelt. I am now to be classified with Senators Chandler, Tillman, Bailey and others who have questioned some act or word of the President. Like every other American gentleman who has a wife to protect, I undertook to defend her name from insinuations and charges of falseness." Storer then reiterated much of what appeared in his first statement, all of which he claims tends to bear out his contention that "I obeyed the explicit instructions of Roosevelt in acting as I did with regard to promotion." Continuing, Storer said: "Ireland told me also the President on several occasions in conversation with him took credit for the action he now repudiates."

Better Still.
"No," said the cheerful idiot, "I never laugh at other people's defects."
"Well, that's as it should be," rejoined the society lady.

"Of course it is," said the C. I. "Besides, I get twice as much fun laughing at the virtues they pretend to have."—Detroit Tribune.

Tonsilline
Cures
Sore Throat

The throat is one of the most delicate parts of the body. It is also one of the most important, and should be given the best possible care.

The throat is the gateway to the body.
The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink, all pass through it. It is very easily affected by cold, strain, ex-posure, etc., and Sore Throat is therefore one of our most common ailments.
Strangely enough, it is also one of the most neglected.

Sore Throat is a very serious matter, for the whole system is in danger in consequence of it.

Every Sore Throat patient is a candidate for Tonsilline, Quinsy, Diphtheria and other serious or fatal diseases, all of which can positively be prevented by the timely use of the Sore Throat by the use of TONSILLINE.

If taken in time a dose or two will do it.
TONSILLINE is made to cure throat diseases and nothing else. It is the one remedy for this purpose sold largely in the United States. Every user endorses it; every physician, knowing its virtues, commends it.

The most important thing to remember about TONSILLINE is the fact that it really does cure Sore Throat.

All druggists, 2c and 50c bottles.

CONTRACTORS WERE TOO SLOW

AMERICAN LIGHT & WATER CO.
TOOK THEIR CONTRACT
FROM PHOENIX CO.

Work Was Well Done But Was Not Progressing Rapidly Enough to Suit the Board.

On Saturday evening, the American Light and Water company withdrew their contract from the Phoenix Construction company of Pittsburgh for the construction work of the water mains for the municipal plant. The contractors will finish the laying of the pipe themselves. The work will be under the supervision of H. C. Olsen Sr., and Mr. John Chlen.

It was stated Monday that the reason for withdrawing the contract was that the Phoenix people were too slow.
What work they did was satisfactorily performed but the company holding the big contract is anxious to push the work more rapidly than was possible with the Pittsburgh people in charge of that part of the work.

The work was continued Monday, but by the fifth of the month a gang of men will arrive from Odman, Indian Territory, to commence work on the contract.

Special cars will leave square tonight for Palace Rink, Columbus vs.

pletion of seven new subway routes in

It is estimated that more than a million and a half of children under the age of fifteen are toiling for their daily bread in the fields, factories and workshops of America. That's to America's shame.

Congressman Watson of Indiana has let it be known that he will vote for the ship subsidy measure, which makes certain the favorable report of the bill by the House committee and its passage. The shipping interests are actively lobbying for the subsidy.

The Chicago Record-Herald offers this paragraph to be passed around: "Raise a big family and uphold the President's hands." That may do in some states, but not in Ohio where the Republican machine is in control. Here the voting of the machine ticket and not the raising of big families is held to be the only way to uphold the hands of the President.

Will the Republican National Committee Pay Back the Stolen Money?

(Youngstown Vindicator.)

President Roosevelt in his message recommended the enactment by Congress of a law prohibiting the contribution by corporations of money for campaign purposes. That recommendation is full of sound. It is a mere recommendation which Congress may ignore as it did at the last session in its failure to enact a law. The President would have accomplished more for clean politics had he been more insistent in his demand that the money be returned for the benefit of policyholders which was contributed by the big insurance companies to the Republican National campaign committee, the chairman of which was and is George B. Cortelyou, a member of the cabinet when the President selected him to conduct his campaign two years ago. Cortelyou was secretary of commerce and labor, the new cabinet position, when Roosevelt picked him for national chairman. Cortelyou resigned from the cabinet long enough to conduct the Roosevelt campaign. That over he re-entered the cabinet as postmaster general and now he is shifted to secretary of the treasury, a promotion, a sort of premium upon his neglect or refusal so far to meet the demand of Roosevelt that the insurance money be returned. It will be recalled that Roosevelt issued a statement to the people of the country vehemently denying that corporation money was being solicited, contributed and used in his behalf in the 1904 campaign. That statement followed the charges of Judge Alton B. Parker, the Democratic nominee, and the unmerciful criticism of Cortelyou whose calls upon corporations were denounced in the newspapers as scandalous. The demand that the money be returned has never been heeded, and the Republican national committee is said to have a pretty good surplus and is in position to pay back. Cortelyou was taken back into the cabinet and he is promoted about the time the President asks the enactment of a law to prevent the corporations from giving any more money to campaign funds, such as Cortelyou's committee received. If President Roosevelt had intimated to Mr. Cortelyou that his remaining in the cabinet or promotion depended upon his heeding the demand for the return of the money there would not now be as large a surplus in the hands of Treasurer Bliss of the Republican national committee and there would not be quite so many prominent Republicans standing against what Roosevelt stands for.

THE ROOSEVELT-BRYAN MERGER

(New York World.)

Mr. Bryan in his Madison Square Garden speech advocated a Federal income tax. Mr. Roosevelt in his message to Congress advocates both a Federal income tax and a Federal inheritance tax, "when next our system of taxation is revised,"—in the opinion of The World excellent and just measures.

Mr. Bryan advocates publicity of campaign contributions and expenditures and a law forbidding corporation contributions to any political party. Mr. Roosevelt renews his former recommendation that Congress enact such a law.

Mr. Bryan urged the enforcement of the criminal clause of the Sherman law against trusts. Mr. Roosevelt asks for the right of appeal in such criminal cases on questions of law, holding that it is absurd to permit a single district judge to declare a law of Congress unconstitutional against what might be the judgment of an immense majority of his colleagues on the bench, and then deny to the Government the right to have the Supreme court definitely decide the question. Mr. Roosevelt also favors a statute providing that no judgment shall be set aside or new trial granted on technical grounds unless it shall appear that the error complained of resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

Mr. Bryan indorsed the licensing of corporations. Mr. Roosevelt is in favor of controlling corporations by a Federal license law "or in other fashion." Mr. Roosevelt, however, draws a closer distinction than Mr. Bryan between good trusts and bad trusts, and considers some combinations beneficial. He would even legalize railway pooling, but would, of course, regulate it to prevent abuses.

Mr. Bryan opposed government by injunction, especially in labor disputes. Mr. Roosevelt concedes that injunctions issue too freely in these causes, and would require judges to give due notice to the adverse parties before granting a writ.

Mr. Bryan favored an eight hour day. Mr. Roosevelt believes "it should be our aim steadily to reduce the number of hours of labor, with, as a goal, the general introduction of an eight hour day." Mr. Roosevelt would begin by limiting the hours of railroad employees. The eight hour law already on the statute books relating to federal contracts "is being rigidly enforced," but the President favors further legislation if it is needed.

Mr. Bryan advocates compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, but not compulsory acceptance of the findings. Mr. Roosevelt urges the appointment of a judicial commission of investigation and conciliation to deal with strikes.

Mr. Bryan declared that the Philippines should be dealt with after the manner of Cuba. Since that time there has been a Cuban insurrection, and we are temporarily dealing with Cuba as we should deal with the Philippines. Mr. Roosevelt says that when the elections are held and a new government is inaugurated in a peaceful, orderly fashion the provisional government in Cuba will come to an end, but nobody knows when that will be. Mr. Bryan's wish has been fulfilled inversely. Both, however, favor free trade for the Philippines, or at least a greatly reduced tariff.

Mr. Bryan insisted that the navy should not be employed in the collection of private debts. Mr. Roosevelt deprecates such use of the navy and is in moral sympathy with the resolution adopted at the Rio conference recommending that the question be submitted to a second peace conference at The Hague.

Mr. Roosevelt makes important recommendations relating to many questions which Mr. Bryan did not discuss in the Madison Square Garden speech. He favors the withdrawal of the government coal lands. Ownership in such lands would remain in the United States, which would not attempt to mine coal but would license mining and receive royalty on the coal taken out. Mr. Bryan will undoubtedly indorse this recommendation.

Mr. Roosevelt also proposes to extend employers' liability so that the entire "trade risk" will be upon the employer. "If the entire trade risk is placed upon the employer he will promptly and properly add it to the cost of production and assess it proportionately upon the consumers of his product." In this way society as a whole would pay for the accidents resulting from occupations that are necessarily hazardous. It is to be assumed that Mr. Bryan will sympathize with this extension of the socialistic principle. Whether he will also indorse the President's recommendation for a Federal marriage and divorce law is more problematical, but there is nothing in the suggestion that conflicts with Mr. Bryan's theories of government.

Mr. Roosevelt thinks the meat inspection law should be amended to provide that the labels be dated and the cost of inspection charged to the packers. Mr. Bryan strongly favors this.

Mr. Roosevelt also argues at length to prove that the courts are entitled to no immunity from criticism, and that "the best judges have ever been foremost to disclaim" such immunity. Mr. Bryan has consistently adhered to this position ever since the Supreme court declared the income tax unconstitutional, and the Chicago platform hinted at a reorganization of the court.

Mr. Bryan in turn recommended important measures which the President ignores. He favored tariff revision, and the President's silence on the subject is oppressive. It is hinted, however, that the President intends to call the Sixtieth Congress in extra session to revise the tariff. Mr. Bryan also suggested government ownership of railroads as a possible solution of a perplexing problem. Afterward he insisted that he was really no more radical on this question than Mr. Roosevelt, and that he did not favor ownership unless regulation failed to accomplish its purposes. Mr. Roosevelt insists that regulation is already accomplishing its purpose, and that in the five months since the rate law was enacted there has been a previously unheard of number of reductions in freight rates.

Comparing Mr. Bryan's Madison Square Garden speech with Mr. Roosevelt's message to Congress the reader is forced to the conclusion that if Mr. Roosevelt would advocate tariff revision and Mr. Bryan would stop advocating government ownership of railroads they would be substantially in accord. Certainly two great political parties could not successfully divide on the issue of the "peace with righteousness" which comes from a big navy, or even on the issue of a ship subsidy. Acceptance of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Bryan as the leaders of their respective parties we defy anybody to say where the dividing line is beyond which a voter has ceased to be a Bryan Democrat and become a Bryan Republican. There has been no such obliteration of party lines in American politics for three-quarters of a century.

The Roosevelt-Bryan merger is one of the most extraordinary events in American history, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Bryan claims to be "more radical than ever," while Mr. Roosevelt persists in regarding himself as a rational conservative, battling manfully against the demagogue and the agitator.

REV. MR. BOYCE ACCEPTS CALL

POPULAR NEWARK PASTOR WILL GO TO FINDLAY IN JANUARY.

Already First Church Has Received Applications From Ministers Who Want to Come Here.

The Rev. Lester S. Boyce, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, who recently received a call from the First Presbyterians of Findlay, O., has accepted the position offered him as successor to the Rev. John Montgomery, formerly of this city, who left Findlay a few weeks ago to accept a pastorate at Piqua, O.

Rev. Mr. Boyce will remain here until after the holidays when he will go to Findlay with his family, with the intention of beginning his work there January 15.

The pastor in addressing the members of his church Sunday told them of the conditions under which he leaves and expressed deepest regret at being required to part with them after having spent seven exceedingly pleasant and helpful years here. He asked that a congregational meeting be held on next Sunday at which time the members will join with the pastor in asking that the Presbytery dissolve the pastoral relations.

The First church has received many applications for trials within the past few days, but nothing will be done toward securing a successor to Rev. Mr. Boyce until after his departure, it being the desire of the membership that their present pastor, who has been with them through joy and sadness, united their hearts, buried their loved one, and whose efforts have strengthened their faith, be alone with them until the time of parting.

The Rev. Mr. Boyce has received a letter from Rev. John Montgomery in which he is congratulated upon securing the location in Findlay and in which he calls attention to the fact that "history repeats itself in various ways," Rev. Mr. Boyce having been his successor both here and at Findlay.

EVA ANDERSON ENTERS HER PLEA

PERRY COUNTY WOMAN IS RELEASED ON BOND IN THE FEDERAL COURT.

Hinted That Postal Authorities Are Still Busy and Developments May Follow.

New Lexington, O., Dec. 10.—Miss Eva Anderson, the central figure in the sensational plot brought to light by postal inspectors at this place, was arraigned in the federal court at Columbus on the charge under which she was indicted by the United States grand jury last week, namely, using the United States Mails to transmit obscene and threatening letters.

The Anderson woman pleaded not guilty to the charge and was able to furnish bond for her appearance later, so was discharged and returned to her home near this city Saturday evening.

As has been previously stated sensational developments are expected when the case comes up for trial in the federal court at Columbus. Several persons in Muskingum county and vicinity are suspected of having a hand in the plot and the postal authorities are said to be still working on the case. Further arrests may follow.

The concert by the Granville Festival Chorus, under the direction of Prof. A. L. Judson, to be held in Reof unusual interest. Instead of the "Messiah," which has been so well given for several years past, the chorus with an orchestra of twenty pieces, will render Gelfel's "Nativity," a work of great merit. The following

THE HEART CAN'T STAND RHEUMATIC ACID POISONING

To Free and Correct the Blood a URIC-O Treatment is Advised.

There is great danger in those sharp, shooting pains throughout the body, especially around the region of the heart. It means that poisonous uric and rheumatic acids are there ready to grip tightly the muscles controlling this organ. Don't neglect these warnings, for they are the danger signals nature flashes to you for help. There is but one way to overcome this poisonous foe, and that is a thorough treatment with Smith's Specific Uric-O. If your system is filled with neuralgia, and if your blood and kidneys are diseased with rheumatic poison, there is no surer way to earth to get relief than through the use of Uric-O. Uric-O is a harmless liquid internal remedy, taken in small doses three times a day, and does not contain a drop of alcohol, opium, or other dangerous poisons. Uric-O is simply a cure for Sciatica, Muscular, Inflammatory and Articular Rheumatism. They all yield readily to Uric-O treatment. Your druggist sells Uric-O at $1.00 per bottle. If he does not keep the remedy, you can obtain the same by addressing the makers of Uric-O, the SMITH DRUG COMPANY, SYRACUSE, N.Y.

AMUSEMENTSUNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Col. Sawyer's great pack of genuine Siberian blood hounds are beyond question the finest lot of canines of that strain ever found in this country. They are somewhat larger than our Rocky Mountain lions and much more strongly made, but when aroused or on a trail, have all the fleetness and activity of those animals. These famous hounds are touring with Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," company, this season, and will appear at the Auditorium on Tuesday matinee and night, when this great organization plays here. Watch for the big street parade.

last season. New ensembles, new faces together with the favorites of last year, new costumes, an augmented chorus of fresh young voices and faces and new song hits make a roster of good things that, taking the excellence of the play into consideration, should make "The Beauty Doctor" a greater favorite even than last year. At the Auditorium on Thursday night.

The costumes which came from Cleveland Saturday are beautiful. None better ever came to the city. Remember the cast and chorus are costumed in full. An experienced cast and a beautiful chorus will appear Wednesday, Dec. 12. Prices 25, 35, and 50 cents.

ORPHUM THEATER.

This week's vaudeville bill at the Orphum will certainly attract large crowds as every act is a head liner and worthy of mention. Princess Chinquilla, the only real Indian princess in vaudeville, assisted by Ed Newell, cowboy juggler, the Great Lo Dells, mysterious manipulators and magicians, who are very clever in their line, the East Sisters, character change artists and dancers, come very highly recommended. Parish ventriloquist, introducing his funny wooden headed figures. A laugh from start to finish. THIS AND THAT

Plenty of rain here today but it was quite dry Sunday.

And now it will be Christmas talk until it is all over.

The busy season for the lodge goat in most of the secret societies of Newark has been torn wide open.

Rural mail carriers will make an effort to have congress increase their salaries to $1,000 per year.

The trusts having raised the cost of living nearly 50 per cent are now taking great credit for raising wages ten per cent.

It's a long way between drinks now on Sunday—25 miles to Zanesville.

Still, though early Christmas buying is commendable, it is not well to overlook the fact that taxes are due.

The early shoppers get the pick of wares the cleanest and brightest goods, better service and naturally more attention.

The market reports tell us that "butter and eggs are stronger," which is another evidence that the season for unloading the cold storage houses is with us once more.

Of course, it would be asking too much of the shoppers to request them to consider the overworked clerks, but it's not out of the way to suggest that they will be showing consideration for their own comfort by buying their Christmas presents before the last minute.

Everything being soaking wet today and amazingly dry yesterday shows how suddenly and radically the weather changes in this community.

There is this advantage in doing your Christmas shopping the night before Christmas. The assortment is not such that you waste time deciding what you will buy.

The saddest feature about the holiday season for the fellow who pays the bills is that Christmas is only a week before the 1st of January.

Few folks fall sick from overwork. It's what we do when we don't work that gets us.

ATTENTION BATTALION!

The attention of all men who were in the several arms of service in the late war with Spain, is called to the notice that they will be entertained on Tuesday evening at Memorial Hall, third floor of the Auditorium building, by the local corps of Spanish war boys. The object is that of a kind of reunion, for the purpose of establishing social sessions and the intention of the boys is to hold at least one of these open meetings every month, so that every man who went out in the service in '98, will have an opportunity to meet and make new or renew old acquaintances among his late comrades. The invitation is extended to all, whether they have been members of this or any other soldier organization or not. All are invited and expected to make their arrangements to eat the good gingerbread and drink "Showman's cider" with their comrades Tuesday evening, Dec. 11.

COLUMBUS BOYS VISIT BUCKEYE LAKE

Three boys, whose ages ranged from about 12 to 17 years, were on hand at the Interurban station, Saturday to buy tickets for Buckeye Lake. Each one of the boys had a roll of bills, amounting to 320 or more. Handling Ticket Agent Cook a $1 bill one of the boys asked for a ticket and the others did the same.

Rather surprised at the unexpected display of the rolls of bills, particularly in the hands of such young boys, the ticket agent in a laughing way asked them where they stole it. "Oh, we earned it," said the boys. "We're going over to Buckeye Lake and spend it." They were determined to go and climbed on the first car that pulled out of the station. They seemed to know their way as no attractions at the park, but this fact did not deter them in the least—Columbus Dispatch.

DAY'S BUSINESS IN COURT HOUSE

JUDGE BRISTER GRANTS A DIVORCE TO MRS. WEAKEY IN PROBATE.

Case of Black vs. Wright on Trial to Jury—Reality Transfers—Other Court House News.

The Probate court heard the divorce case of Blanche Weakley vs. Nathan T. Weakley, late Saturday afternoon after the criminal cases were finished for that day. Attorney Edward Kibler appeared for the plaintiff and the defendant made no appearance. A decree was granted the plaintiff on the grounds of extreme cruelty, gross neglect of duty and habitual drunkenness.

Motion for New Trial.

In the case of Lavina Wilkins vs. John C. Snyder, the plaintiff has filed a motion in the Common Pleas court to set aside the verdict of the jury, and grant her a new trial for the following reasons:

First, that the verdict is contrary to the evidence and to law.

Second, the court erred in his charge to the jury after the argument.

Third, the court erred in giving the special requests to charge before argument requested by defendant.

Fourth, the court erred in refusing to give the special requests to charge before argument requested by the plaintiff.

Fifth, the court erred in admitting improper testimony over the objections and exception of plaintiffs.

Sixth, the court erred in refusing Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

The case of Frederic M. Black vs. Wm. S. Wright et al, was on trial to the court and jury Monday. The suit is brought to recover for services rendered from June, 1900, to June, 1902. The plaintiff claims that he obtained franchise and options, and performed almost continuous services during said time for the Newark & Granville Street Railway company. Miller, Wright & Wright, Kibler & Montgomery, Black in person.

Suit to Quiet Lease.

In the case of Mary Balshine vs. Abby Bolwine and James Allen, suit to quiet lease, the defendant, James Allen, has filed his answer.

Defendant says that on the 9th of November, 1904, defendant, Abby Bolwine, rented and leased certain premises in West Newark, to Charles Foster; that during the life of the lease it was assigned to this answering defendant and on June 7, 1906, the defendant, Abby Bolwine entered into an agreement with the answering defendant extending the lease to April 1, 1908, at the fixed price of $25 per month for the six months he is giving April 1, and $15 per month for the remainder of the year.

Defendant says that at the time of service of summons on him in this case he was indebted to Abby Bolwine in the sum of $4.95; that he has no property of any kind in his possession belonging to Abby Bolwine except the real estate referred to, and is not indebted to him in any sum except the $4.95 and $15, the November rent, which became due on the first day of November, 1906, making a total of $19.95.

Defendant asks that an order be made by the court as to the amount now due, and for any further sums which may become due. He asks the court to make such order respecting his payments, and to whom and where he shall pay the same. S. L. James, attorney.

The plaintiff was granted a decree on the ground of drunkenness and neglect, and was restored to her maiden name, Clara Latham.

Jury Failed to Agree.

The case of Ohio against Odell Garrison of Utica, charged with being drunk and disorderly, came to an end Monday afternoon by the jury reporting that they had failed to agree. The case was brought from Mayor Bricker's court in Utica, and the trial has been in progress before Probate Judge Brister and a jury all day Saturday and up to noon Monday. The case created considerable interest, owing to the prominence of the accused, and a large number of witnesses on both sides had been subpoenaed. It is understood that the jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction.

JUDGE TAYLOR IS ADJUDGED INSANE

A FEW YEARS AGO JUDGE TAYLOR WAS ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN MEN.

According to Doctor's Certificate His Trouble is Caused by Increasing Paresis.

One of the saddest cases that has ever come before the Probate court was that of Monday morning, when former Probate Judge Waldo Taylor was adjudged insane. The affidavit of insanity was filed by J. W. Sasser, with whom Judge Taylor had been making his home for some time, and the medical certificate by Dr. O. P. Sook.

The patient was not brought into court, but Judge Brister went to the home of Mr. Sasser where the examination was held. Judge Taylor, who was formerly one of the most rugged men in the county, possessing an unusually strong intellect, is now a mere wreck of what he once was. According to the doctor's certificate, his trouble is caused by "increasing paresis" with which he had been troubled for some time. For many months he has been kindly cared for by Mr. J. W. Sasser at his home, but the end has at last come, and he was removed to Columbus Monday afternoon, where he was turned over to the officials of the State Hospital.

KING LEOPOLD DENIES REPORTS OF ATROCITIES

SAYS HE IS NOT INTERESTED IN CONGO FREE STATE TO EXTENT OF ONE CENT.

MR. LODGE'S RESOLUTION

Providing for International Inquiry Into Alleged Atrocities in the Congo Free State.

(Copyrighted Cable.)

Brussels, Belgium, Dec. 10.—In an interview given personally today to your correspondent King Leopold denied categorically the reports which have been circulated so widely of atrocities practiced in the Congo. His common sense would have kept him from indulging in cruelties such as those he is accused of practicing, the king declared, even if he were not moved by humanity to do so.

The old king also paid a high tribute to America and Americans, especially to President Roosevelt, whom he described as a "splendid type of the splendid American nation."

King Leopold denied that he is financially interested in the Congo to the extent of one cent.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Senator Lodge introduced a resolution today providing for an international inquiry into the alleged atrocities in the Congo Free State.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Dr. Herbert Johnson, of Boston, representing the Congo Reform Association, is in Washington to try to induce Secretary of State Root to intervene with King Leopold of Belgium, in behalf of the natives of the Congo Free State. Dr. Johnson accused the Belgium government of failing to punish men who commit atrocities on natives for the purpose of commercial gain. Belgium officers, he says, permit the natives serving in the army to murder and feed on their victims. He declared one of the rules of the military was that every time a soldier uses a cartridge he must bring in a human hand to show for it. Dr. Johnson said Leopold's recent reform edict will not be carried out.

NATIONAL LEAGUE NEW YORK TUESDAY

New York, Dec. 10.—The annual meeting of the National League of Baseball Clubs will be held here Tuesday, and a meeting of the board of directors of the league will be held at the league's headquarters in New York on the same day. One of the purposes of the meeting will be to elect a president, for which Harry C. Pulliam is again a candidate.

The First Presbyterian church will serve dinner and supper, Tuesday, December 11th.

Body of Mayor Charles A. Snyder of Dayton, O., drowned while hunting at White Fish Lake, Ont., Oct. 24, has been recovered. The search continued without interruption since the drowning.

CONTRACT LET TO BRENNAN & NUTTER

WEST MAIN STREET JOB WILL REQUIRE MILLION OF PAVING BRICK.

Cramer & Richardson and S. J. White Are in on Work to be Done in Spring.

The board of public service Monday morning awarded the contract for the West Main street paving to Brennan & Nutter, their price being the lowest bid, $22,090.68. This is for the paving alone, not including the curbing or concrete foundations. It does, however, include cement work and the construction of sewer drops and manholes.

The contract for curbing was let to Cramer & Richardson for $4838.50, and for concrete foundations to S. J. White for $2,406.35. The combination bid is as follows:

Cramer & Richardson for curbing, $4,838.50.

S. J. White concrete foundations, $2,406.35.

Brennan & Nutter, pavement, etc., $22,090.68.

Total cost, $29,335.63.

The street railway company decided to do the paving between the rails and on each side to the extent of one foot so that the city will have nothing to do with that part of the work except to see that it is carried out according to the specifications under which the contracts were made.

The next lowest combination bid for the work was that of W. S. Pace, combined with the concrete work and curbing as stated above, the bid being as follows:

Cramer & Richardson for curbing, $4,838.50.

S. J. White, for concrete foundations, $2,406.35.

W. S. Pace, paving, etc., $22,090.68.

Total, $29,345.07.

The Board of Public Service decided to use the Bolen brick in the paving of the street.

To do this job a million bricks or about 250 car loads will be required. The contractors will get the bricks on the ground and be ready to pave West Main street from Raceoon creek to Sixteenth street in the spring.

IMPROVEMENTS AT BUCKEYE LAKE

COLUMBUS MAN WILL ERECT A $5000 COTTAGE THERE IN THE SPRING.

Demand for Building Lots Continues and Many Houses Will Go Up Next Season.

Lancaster, O., Dec. 10.—Mr. Chas. Rader, the governor of Buckeye Lake was a business visitor in Lancaster. Mr. Rader says the improvements along the south side of this great resort will be greater than ever next year and many people are contemplating the erection of substantial and costly cottages.

Mr. Eddie Born the Columbus brewer, has leased Mosquito island, near Summerland Beach, and will erect on the opening of spring a dwelling to cost $5000 or more. He will also build a retaining wall around the island.

The Taylor farm immediately in the south shore has been laid out in lots and are selling rapidly. Only a few years ago this farm of about 50 acres went begging for a buyer at $4,500, and since that time Mr. Taylor has sold about twelve acres for $6,500 and has the balance left.

The cottages and improvements made on this side of the reservoir within the last few years will total a hundred thousand dollars or more. Lots that sold at the start for a hundred dollars are now being held at six and seven hundred dollars.

LAD'S RELEASE IS ORDERED BY JUDGE

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 10.—Federal Judge Waddill ordered the release from the navy of William Booker, an apprentice seaman who, it is alleged, left his home in St. Joseph county, Indiana, and enlisted at Chicago without the knowledge of his parents. The government appealed, but the court directed that the youth be released forthwith in the custody of his counsel and his father pending the appeal.

The Little Brown Peril

A Ticklish Question For Uncle Sam Is the "Venerable Honorable" Japanese Problem

How the Segregation of Young Nipponese in San Francisco's Schools Has Punctured the Dignity of the Mikado's Sons—Why California Objects to the Japanese and Kicks Against Educating a Large Alien Population

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

WHAT shall we do with the Japs? What will the Japs do to us—or try to do—unless we do justice to them according to their own interpretation of justice? No problem more delicately ticklish has arisen for Uncle Sam's solution in these many years. It is a serious problem, by no means to be treated flippantly.

The affair of the Japanese and the San Francisco public schools is merely a manifestation of the extraordinary ticklishness of the whole proposition. The Japanese are a people peculiarly sensitive. In this they are in direct contrast to the Chinese, to whom they are related in some degree by blood inherited from an ancient past. Your heathen Chinese shrinks only from a blow, caring little for a passive insult, but your Japanese gentleman possesses a sense of dignity which through long centuries has been cultivated to a cult, and if you look slantwise at him it is as bad as stepping on his toes.

Excessively Polite.

The Japanese sense of dignity is perhaps his strongest racial characteristic. It accounts for his extreme politeness, a politeness which the Caucasian sometimes considers obsequiousness. But from the Japanese viewpoint there is nothing cringing in his bowing and scraping and kotoing and his employment of superlative terms of veneration. These things are a part of his education, of the education of his ancestors from immemorial ages.

the schools where the white children are educated. These reasons apply more particularly to the Japanese than to the Chinese, because there are so many Japanese youths nearly full grown who want to go to school. Parents object to having their little girls and boys of tender years sit alongside big fellows from Nippon, in many instances believed to be more than eighteen years old. It is quite probable that they would object to white youths of the corresponding maturity for obvious reasons. What the young Japanese chiefly want to learn is English, and most of them must begin in the primary grades.

Their Dignity Punctured.

When the order of segregation in conformance with the local law was announced the Japanese seemed to take it as a studied affront. Their sense of dignity was lacerated. In other words, they were stung. They felt that it was a discrimination that punctured their dignity. They arose in protest to the powers at Washington, appealing their protest through Ambassador Aoki up to the mikado's government, the court of last resort with every son of Japan.

There are those who point out as justification for San Francisco's action the fact that in our own country a large class of our own citizens, the negroes, is segregated as to public school instruction in many states. They urge this as a reason why Japan should come down from her high horse and be reasonable. But that is throwing fuel on the fire. The ministers of state in these immigration question as this country might deem proper. Only President Roosevelt's earnest protest that such a measure would be ill timed prevented Mr. Hayes from taking this action. The president seems to be striving to avoid poking the coals. He is aware that the venerable honorable Japanese problem is ticklish, and he sees the necessity of politeness. Accordingly for the present he seems to have sheathed the big stick and resumed the presidential smile. The average citizen, irrespective of party, no doubt will assent to this course as the way of wisdom. We are not looking for trouble with Japan. This is not a party question. It concerns all the people. Peace with honor, peace with politeness—that is the thing.

The race question as to the Japanese in California and elsewhere on the Pacific coast is sectional just now, but it may become general. San Francisco does not object to the Japanese in a racial sense on the same ground as the south objects to the negro. The objection is based, strange to say, largely upon the aptitude of the Japanese for acquiring American business efficiency and for taking the place of the white man as a workman. The Japanese as everybody in California calls him—is apt. He picks up information with surprising celerity and adapts it to his uses with amazing ease. He is not an intellectual inferior. There is not so very much objection to his intermarriage with the whites—none at all in many instances. In this respect he is not to be considered along with the Chinese. The Jap is of a higher order.

Union Labor Aroused.

California has discovered that the Japanese are taking away the white man's business and the white man's job. Union labor, which is particularly strong in San Francisco, is up in arms against the Nipponese for that reason. There is a state labor organization in opposition to Japanese encroachments. When they find it desirable these imported people can work very much more cheaply than white men can work, because they can live more cheaply. The same condition obtains in business. They can make money where white men would find a hard struggle. With the Japanese competition in business many white men go to the wall.

There is a man in Japan named Nishomura, who controls the cobbler trade in San Francisco. He operates a regular monopoly in shoe mending. His monopoly extends to other important towns in California. He has a system, operated by his agents in that state, which has made it almost imperative for you to get your shoes soled by a Jap. He is rich and lives in his flowery Japan.

One Uchiyama of San Francisco monopolizes the potato growing business in the rich Sacramento valley. He is a millionaire. He corners the San Francisco spud market when he likes. He employs Jap labor altogether on his vast potato plantations.

One Nagasawa of San Francisco owns and operates one of the largest vineyards in California. He used to be a domestic servant, a "housemaid." He is worth millions. His wines are drunk in New York, Liverpool, London, in each of which cities he maintains branch establishments.

Not Americans, but Subjects of Japan.

There is growing up in California a line of Japanese communities in the midst of white communities. The Japs have their own banks, their own shops, their own clubs. They are not citizens of the United States, but subjects of Japan. They come over, in fact, to acquire occidental culture and occidental cash, returning to apply these two convenient commodities to the glory of Nippon and to their own personal advancement in the land of flowers. Each Jap who takes American education and American money to his native island adds to the intellectual and material strength of his empire.

He adds also to its fighting strength. Therein lies food for thought. Fifty years ago the United States opened Japan to modern civilization. We crowded about it for nearly fifty years. We sent our emissaries to the island empire, teaching them about the white man's God. Yet the Shinto shrine and the Buddhist temple flourish in San Francisco, and in the great temple at Tokyo the 14,000 gods of ancient Nippon still grin with sardonic grimace, and the greatest of these is the war god.

The Japanese can fight. Did they not whip the Chinese in 1894 and the Russians in 1904? Only the other day they launched the most powerful battleship afloat and from a native shipyard too. They learned how to build it from us and from Europeans. In America and Europe they are learning, learning, day by day and year by year. Shall San Francisco at its own expense educate a large alien population so that this population may return to Japan and use the education thus acquired in strengthening the mikado's empire to the end that the empire may fight more vigorously and more intelligently against us in the event of war when the ultimate mastery of the Pacific shall be determined? This is what California is asking, and the question has percolated to the Atlantic coast.

The president sent his secretary of commerce and labor, Mr. McCall, to San Francisco to study the situation. Mr. McCall lives in a San Francisco suburb. His report should be interesting.

In any event the problem is a big one and constantly growing bigger. Wisdom suggests that it should be handled without the hysteria of prejudice, but on broad grounds of international diplomacy. Let us be firm; let us look to our interests; let us stand for our rights and let us be polite.

CONTRADICTS STORER'S STORY

Did Not Authorize Message to Be Delivered to the Pope.

ROOSEVELT'S SIDE OF CASE

Certain Facts Said to Have Been Misstated or Suppressed in the Former Ambassador's Pamphlet—Correspondence Between the President and the Storers Made Public.

Washington, Dec. 10.—In a long letter to Secretary of State Root, President Roosevelt gives correspondence that passed between the president and former Ambassador Bellamy Storer at Vienna and Mrs. Storer.

The president says Storer's refusal to answer his letters and publication of various private letters justified the ambassador's removal; that Mr. Storer's publication of private correspondence was peculiarly unsentimental, and that he (the president) had stated with absolute clearness his position, the reason why it was out of the question for him as president to try to get any archbishop made cardinal, though expressing his admiration for Archbishop Ireland as well as leaders of other denominations. He says he thinks it well that the members of the cabinet should know certain facts "which he (Storer) either suppresses or misstates." He says he did not resent the action of the Storers "until it became evident they were likely to damage American interests."

The president says Mrs. Storer urged him to give her husband a cabinet place and that she stated Mr. Choate at London and General Porter at Paris were not proper persons to be ambassadors, suggesting her husband in that connection. The president incorporates a letter from Postmaster General Cortelyou contradicting the statement that President McKinley had commissioned a gentleman to ask the pope "as a personal favor to him" and as "an honor to the country" to appoint Archbishop Ireland as cardinal. Mr. Cortelyou says the late president never made any such request. The president declares that Mr. Storer's statement that he authorized any such message to be delivered to Pope Pius is untrue. He says that he never received a letter from Ambassador Storer giving an account of his visit to the vatican, and of the message he personally gave the pope on behalf of Mr. Roosevelt.

The president's action follows the publication of the "confidential pamphlet" which Mr. Storer last week sent to the president, the cabinet and the senate foreign relations committee. The letters show the familiar relations of the president and the Storers from the time Roosevelt was governor of New York. Some of Roosevelt's letters to Storer were addressed "My Dear Bellamy," and to his wife, "My Dear Maria," and Storer addressed the president as "Dear Theodore." Storer asserts that Roosevelt himself, while governor of New York, urged the Storers to use their influence with the vatican for Ireland's promotion, believing the prelate's patriotism would aid in solving the problems connected with the Catholic church in the Philippines. The later letters from Roosevelt as president are published by Mr. Storer evidently to show the president's alleged inconsistency.

The president said no hint or intimation of the Bellamy Storer pamphlet containing the correspondence between the president and Mr. and Mrs. Storer was given out at the White House. The former ambassador, the president stated, not only sent his "open letter" to members of the cabinet, but to at least a dozen members of the senate and house. He added that Mr. Storer had no desire to keep the contents of the pamphlet a secret and that undoubtedly it was his desire that the letter find its way into print.

FRANCE FACES GRAVE CRISIS

Pope Rejects the Government's Plan of Public Worship.

ACTION CREATES SENSATION

Pontiff's Decision Entirely Unexpected and Cabinet Ministers Anticipate Serious Trouble—Orders From Rome Held by Government a Summons of Catholics to Revolt.

Paris, Dec. 10.—Reports of Pope Pius' rejection of the French government's final proposition, under which Catholic worship could be continued under the common law, turn out to be only too true, and the deadlock now is apparently complete. According to the holy father's orders, declarations under the law of 1881 are prohibited, but the parish priests must remain in their churches until driven out by violence. The official confirmation of this communication has created a sensation, both in government and Catholic circles. Cardinal Lecot, archbishop of Bordeaux, Archbishop Germain and others, who already had advised compliance with the law, have hastily instructed the parish priests of their dioceses that their former advice is null and void, and Sunday in all the churches of Paris bishops and priests, after mass, read the letter from Cardinal Richard, archbishop of Paris, communicating the decision of the holy see to "continue services in the churches, but abstain from any declaration," and Cardinal Richelieu's own instructions, in view of the order issued by the prefect of the Seine not to permit for the present the employment of ceremonial draperies at marriages or funerals.

Premier Clemenceau and M. Briand, minister of public worship, were in conference all day. There is no sign of the government faltering, but it recognizes that it may be forced to resort to extreme measures. M. Briand said that the decision of the pope was entirely unexpected.

The church wardens, whose legal existence expires Tuesday, were thanked from the pulpits of the various churches. Prayers were offered for the protection of God during the coming period of persecution. The government regards the action of the pontiff as little less than a summons of the French Catholics to open rebellion, as rendering the situation exceedingly grave, and possibly entailing the most deplorable consequences. The church and state separation law goes into effect in Paris Dec. 11, and will be enforced in the various departments on Dec. 12 and 13.

TEN MILLIONS

Deficit of the Postoffice Department. Cortelyou's Report.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The annual report of the postmaster general reviews the work of the department for the past year, give in detail the postal revenue and expenditures, discusses important changes that have been made in departmental organization, and makes such suggestions and recommendations as appear to be warranted. The following is a statement of the department's finances: The receipts for the year were $167,932,782.95; the expenditures, $178,449,778.89; excess of expenditures over receipts, $10,516,995.94. The postmaster general recommends an increase of wages of postoffice clerks, city carriers and rural carriers. He states: "I recommend that provision be made for the carriage by rural carriers, at a fair rate of postage, of small parcels on rural routes, such privilege to be restricted in each case to the limits of the particular route on which the parcel originates, or, if found feasible, to all the routes emanating from a single postoffice."

Civic Federation.

New York, Dec. 10.—The National Civic Federation will hold its annual meeting in New York on Wednesday and Thursday. The advisability of imposing taxes on incomes and inheritances will be discussed by Andrew Carnegie, President Eliot of Harvard, Oscar Straus and Samuel Gompers. Government by injunction will be discussed by John Mitchell, Seth Low and others. Child labor will also be considered.

Three Dead in Bed.

New York, Dec. 10.—Richard Hoppe and his wife, aged 62 and 60 years respectively, and their 5-year-old granddaughter, Louisa Byrnes, were found dead in bed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe at West Brighton, Coney Island, having been asphyxiated by illuminating gas. The jet in the room was partially turned on. Mr. and Mrs. Hoppe had been accustomed to sleep with the light burning low.

Krupps to Enlarge Plant.

Essen, Prussia, Dec. 10.—The Krupp company has decided to increase its capital stock by $5,000,000 and to erect new buildings to cost about $15,000,000. All the new issue of stock is to remain in the Krupp family. One million one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars of the new issue will be placed in reserve.

In All Stores

Sometimes this excess of politeness is amusing, but it is always respectable.

The good gray poet of the Sierras, Joaquin Miller, at his home on the heights near San Francisco once told the present writer a little story in point. The poet keeps two or three Japanese young men about his place. Until her death a year ago his aged mother, ninety years old, lived with him. One day Mr. Miller and his mother had occasion to ride down the hills to the town. A young Japanese hitched the horse to the buggy. He was to act as driver. The buggy was a small one, and when the three were seated the Japanese observed that the poet's legs, which are handsomely long, were hanging outside the buggy bed.

"The boy was greatly distressed," said Mr. Miller. "He had done his polite best to dispose us comfortably in the buggy. Seeing my legs thus, he bowed profoundly and said, 'Ah, venerable honorable sir, what shall we do with your venerable honorable legs?'"

It is necessary to know the Japanese sensitiveness, which induces this "venerable honorable" politeness, in order to understand why the Japanese government is so highly offended because of the segregation of Japanese school children in San Francisco. These children have not been excluded from the schools. They have been placed in a public school built and maintained for children of Mongolian and Korean descent. This school has all the facilities of the schools for white children, with teachers equally competent. It was established some years ago by a municipal ordinance, but until the earthquake and fire altered conditions many of the Japanese children overflowed into the other public schools. The law was not enforced then. The recent decision of the school board to enforce the segregation law is the occasion of the present difficulty.

San Franciscans present many reasons why Japanese and Chinese children should not be permitted to attend

Japan as well as the Nipponese residents in America know very well that our negro citizens are educated in separate schools in certain states because of the strong race prejudice. The Japanese themselves in America come to absorb more or less of this race prejudice in relation to the negro, and even where they take the broader view of the solidarity of the human race they resent anything that tends to class them with the negroes, because they know that the negro is looked down upon in certain sections, and they do not care to be looked down upon themselves. They won't stand that.

While San Francisco seems to have good reason for segregating the Caucasian and the oriental in its public schools because of the radical difference required in the methods of teaching an English speaking child of seven years and a non-English speaking youth of eighteen, there is no denying that race prejudice enters unofficially into the problem. There is a race problem on the Pacific coast which for the present touches no other section of the Union. Formerly it had to do with the Chinese, and it was not until the problem reached and touched practically every part of the country in some measure that the Chinese exclusion act was passed through congress. The memorable Dennis Kearney agitation against the Chinese in San Francisco twenty years ago was the forerunner of Chinese exclusion. Does the present imbroglio portend Japanese exclusion? That is the question which people throughout the United States are asking.

A Ticklish Problem.

Congressman Francis A. Hayes of California already has a Japanese exclusion act before congress, and the other day he was on the point of introducing a joint resolution requesting the president to bring about a new treaty with Japan which would leave the United States free to handle the Japa-

GARFIELD

Urges Federal Inspection of Great Industrial Corporations.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Commissioner of Corporations Garfield, in his annual report, urges again the necessity for the establishment of federal inspection and supervision of the greater industrial corporations engaged in interstate and foreign commerce. He says it will not interfere with the power and authority of the states over the corporations created under a state law and is not an invasion of private rights but merely will "restore individual responsibility and prevent the corporations from being the hiding place of the irresponsible, dishonest or corrupt manager." Denial of the right to engage in interstate commerce is suggested as the penalty for proved violation of the law.

During the fiscal year indictments containing $133 counts were returned by the various grand juries as the result of this investigation. "A most striking and important result immediately followed the investigation of the bureau; the railroads canceled substantially all the secret rates, illegal or improper discriminations, and in many cases the discriminations in open rates. The shippers of oil advise the bureau that for the first time in many years they are now rapidly obtaining equality of treatment from the transportation companies."

NO SUCH THING AS TAINTED MONEY

UNLESS ITS PRESENT OWNER
USES IT FOR WRONG PURPOSES SAYS MINISTER.

Interesting Sermon at Central Church of Christ Sunday Evening by Rev. H. N. Miller.

"There is no such thing as tainted money unless its present owner uses it for wrong purposes. Money assumes the character of the possessor and can therefore be transmitted into life as readily as life is transmuted into money in the world of labor."

The above was the substance of the intellectual sermon delivered on Sunday night by the Rev. H. Newton Miller, of Central Church of Christ, on the subject of "The Right Use of Money," one of the series "Paths to Power." Rev. Mr. Miller, taking for his text, Luke 16.9, in his discourse touched upon the commercial value of money as a medium of exchange as compared with its real value as a means for the spreading of the doctrines of righteousness.

The miser was pictured in his act of piling up and hoarding his gold, which, after years and years of privation and want for the sake of merely the possession of the gold, means nothing to its possessor because he must leave it. It has done no good in the world, it has shriveled the soul of its possessor and changed him so that he is physically a mass of hard, cramped expression of greed. Therefore, it has done only harm.

On the other hand, the man who has wealth and who has used it for the good of mankind in general, who has taken some worthy child and educated it at a great cost, or who has endowed worthy institutions, that man has laid up a great treasure in heaven, which is many times greater than that which he possessed on earth.

The speaker showed how life is transmuted into money, how man's energy is exchanged for money.

"Take that same money," he said, "and expend it for the sake of the work of Jesus toward uplifting some fallen soul, and you have transmuted, or transferred, that money into life, everlasting life."

"I heard of a man who was successful in this way. He had a number of very extensive business interests which were worth to him many, many thousands of dollars. He had a beautiful home and a faithful, loving wife. One day he came home and said to his wife, 'I have lost all. I am now a ruined man and we are as poor as the beggar in the streets,' and it was true. Through an unfortunate investment he had lost everything."

"The wife, who was a true wife, said, after a little thought, 'Well, you have me and I have you, and they can't take us from each other, can they?' No," he answered. "Well then, we have life, we are happy and we can do good and try again." With this encouragement the husband went to work with an inspiration and succeeded.

"This shows, I think, that money is not all of life. It is not a necessity of the soul. But, as it comes into our possession by honest means it can be made the greatest power for good next to omnipotence."

As a fitting illustration of the point he wished to bring out, Rev. Mr. Miller stated that the current coin here must be exchanged in the banks of the world for the kind that is current in Heaven.

Considering the inclemency of the weather a goodly number of persons were so fortunate as to hear the excellent sermon and the music rendered by the male quartet, composed of Rev. Mr. Miller and three other young men of the church. The sermon could not but make a powerful impression and put a clearer view on the subject of rightfully and wrongly used money.

Alleges Railroad Act Void.
Bellevue, O., Dec. 10.—The question of Governor Pattison's inability, in the days of his last illness, to pass upon legislation, is raised in an answer just filed by Judge William West and John West, attorneys for the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company, in the suit brought by Joseph and Hugh Brown of Belle Center, who sued the company for $1,000 under the new law, alleging that the railway company had discriminated against them in furnishing cars for shipping of hay. The act was passed April 2, 1906, and the claim is made that the act was never presented to Governor Pattison, and for that reason was never considered or vetoed by him, and is therefore invalid.

STAR WITNESS IN KERLIN CASE

CHIEF SHERIDAN LEARNS OF
THE DEATH OF GOLDIE
PATTERSON.

Young Woman's Mother Resides in Newark—Remains Taken to Zanesville for Burial.

Chief Sheridan received a telegram Sunday containing the information of the death of Goldie Patterson one of the state's star witnesses in the George Kerlin murder case which was tried in the Common Pleas court during the latter part of last winter's term of court.

The message was from the chief of police at Quincy, Ill., and merely contained the statement that the woman was dead and asked the chief to notify Mrs. Hathaway of West Newark.

At the time of the murder for which George Kerlin was tried, Goldie Patterson lived on Walnut street. She was one of the witnesses who testified directly concerning the shooting of Charles Higgins, the young Delaware man who at that time was a non-union polisher employed at the Wehrle foundry.

The young woman's mother lives on South First street and directed the Quincy authorities to send the body to Zanesville where the funeral services will be held.

know, sat down beside me. He was accompanied by Miss Dixon. Of a sudden, and without any word of warning, McNeal suddenly sprang to his feet. He drew a revolver and fired three times at me. Each bullet hit me. I grappled with him and struggled to wrest the gun from his hand. My life was saved by the timely interference of Motorman Stiles, to whom too much credit cannot be given for his courageous action in coming to my rescue."

Miss Dixon is lying at the home of David Leach, prostrated by the terror of the scenes she witnessed and the sudden attack that made her lover seek her life.

William Weatherwax, who followed McNeal on foot to town after the latter had been hurled from the car by Motorman Stiles, says that the madman discarded his coat and a revolver on the trip back. Weatherwax blames his own pistol for the fact that he was unable to subdue McNeal before he was laid low on the outskirts of the city.

Mr. Levifay, whose accurate aim prevented McNeal from wounding if not killing Sheriff Evans and Officer Wagner, is a member of the Jackson Mill and Lumber company.

It is generally believed that he has no chance of recovery.
